

Pediatric Intensive Care Unit

The PICU is for the sickest of kids ages 0-18. Some kids are there short-term; however, the unit often has families and kids there long-term as well. The staff tries to make the kids (and families) feel at home as much as possible, by giving them their own personal blanket and changing their clothes daily (often many times a day). Every kid that comes into the unit, no matter the length of time, gets to keep a blanket. The unit runs on donations and especially during this time of year the hospital is continuously busy, and the donations are not enough to cover the amount of kids who are coming in.
